TEXAS JUDGE ADVISES KLAN MEN BE SHOT UPON SIGHT

Says Homicide Justifiable
When Disguised Persons
Attempt To Spread Alarm

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 20.—
Shout first and investigate afterwards, that was the advice of Judge W. A. Wallace, a special district court judge of Bexar County. In regard to action to be taken in the event of a visit of masked men, before the members of the Klan.

Humbleton is justifiable, Judge Williams told his audience last night.
When the Klan, in its efforts to instill fear and to alarm the public, attempt to spread the means of violence, it may be the means of the prevention of many acts of violence. The Ku Klux Klan may put a fear into one or two individuals but it would be unwise to kill all of its members if they come upon you in disguise."

Law Against Disguises

Not only should the members of Klan be obliged to appear in the State and National Law, Justice Wallace said, but it also is punishable under a city law to enter a house or office or other place with a gun or knife or any other sharp object to threaten or to alarm.

Judge Wallace was introduced to the club by Judge Thomas D. Cubbs, Associate Justice of the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, who is a member of the Klan.

He was asked to speak at a meeting of the Klan, which he attended, and then he was asked to speak at a meeting of the Klan chapter he organized.

"I am here to inform you that a large number of Negroes have been killed in Texas by the Klan," said Justice Andrews. "I am writing the parade; I believe that their intention was to stage such a demonstration here next, and it may be necessary to call out the grand jury before they come."

"At the opening of his address, he said that his subject was inappropriate for the Klan, but he did not say a word about it, talk about 'treachery, disorder and falsehood,' which constitute what the Ku Klux Klan is bringing in this country."

GOOD MUSIC AND PLENTY OF FUN AT THE K. W. THEATRE THIS WEEK

Good music dominates the Drake Walker show at the Booker Washington Theatre this week. There are two musicals this week, one for there is a continuance of that kind of comedy for which Henry Drake has become famous.

The playlet is entitled "Why Wife Leaves Home." In the same old story of a man who has been unfaithful, the man's wife has a doctor and she leaves home to go with him to California. She goes to see her mother, the actions of her rural relatives who, unmet for a large city, follow her to a great, record-breaking, new town. While Drake, the doctor, H. Drake, the husband and his wife, Mrs. Drake, "mum," are the principal characters, there are other characters well. Alida Roberts, the screen's soubrette, is in the scheme to seduce the doctor from his quiet, farmland town.

As with the previous production, the costumes and scenes are attractive, the musical features are "I'm Bound To Land Have More Than A Warped Man," "The Eternal Way," "Not My Native Land," "I'm Bound To Land When It's Not Too Late," "Swanee River," "Hilda Preethy," "Any Time You Want Me," "I'm Bound To Land," "Hilda," and the curtain contest in "Home Again Blues." Drane and Scott bring a screen of real fun and gaiety to the stage. There are some fine dancing, including back-dancing by Clifford Drake. The engagement closes Sunday night.

"When It's Not Too Late," one of the song features at the K. W., this week was composed by L. C. Pughe, better of the Drake-Walkers' dynasties.

Julie F. Arthur, violinist and entertainer, at a St. Louis bay joined the Drake-Walkers' co.

His wife, Miss Little Billie, Bobbie Carson, over whom young life hangs the shadow of death, is the girl who tries to help him try to guard his secret.

The other feature will be Mack Sennett's new and larger comedy, "Marie's Last Love." The "Marie" of the title is a red-head with the roughness and all excitement of a football game, good-natured, though a trifle mannered, a lot of shrills thrown in here and there, and usually comes to peace through compromise, forbearance and mutual love.

Two new serials will be presented to the Criterion patrons. The first episode of "The Mystery of the Missing" will be shown in the Friday. The first episode of "Hurricane Hutch" will be shown on Saturday.

It's man "Bible" Paul, who died his daughter after a long struggle with her but there is no love in his soul while man's heart is more powerful than death. While all's whole heart is so "Brought" that it can't be moved to move him, he has the strong power of life story of the man, which is in all the most exciting scenes in the story of life on the stage. Paul's "The Ringers," which he showed at this theatre next week, will be a great success, especially if he's heard of it and it needs to be told what a delight comedy it is.

Mother O'Mine—"Colorado Pluck" At The Pendleton

There are many instances on record where innocent men and women have faced the devil's penalty for a crime they did not commit. This is clearly shown in "Mother O'Mine," which comes to the Pendleton Theatre, Sunday, Oct. 23, and Monday, Oct. 24, as a tale of a boy who becomes the victim of circumstances. Fighting for his life, he fights his way from his employer's home and failing to get away, he is accidentally killed, fatally wounding his owner. The only witness to the affair is the mistress of the slain man, who is the mother of the boy. She promises to avenge his death, and on the witness' appearance herself, gathers up the boy and carries him to justice, thereby securing his conviction and sentence to the electric chair. There is apparently little time for the interests of justice, the mother's determination and her determination and loyalty draw a confession from the guilty woman just as she is being strapped to the chair.

It is to be hoped that this theatre will present "Mother O'Mine" on Saturday and Sunday and "Action At The Olympia" on Monday.

Ronald Frederick in "Roads of Destiny" will be featured at the Olympia Theatre, Saturday, Oct. 22, in a girl, who has been cast out to fit conclusion in four different ways, purporting what would happen if she were to go one way or another. It reveals how strongly two individuals can be linked together by fate and how impossible it is in some cases to separate them. The other plays in "Roads of Destiny" are to separate scenes of the theme of the plot, old "Roads of Destiny" reveals how strong the ties of family are, with that of slavery of mind to support and against which slavery of mind and shallows only tend to increase.

On Sunday, Hoot Gibson will be seen in "Action." It is a story of those lawbreakers who come into possession of a girl, who is a girl of good character, in contrast to the bawdy older. They send her away to school, but they fall victims of scheming for the town's new hotel, which is to be built across the hill. The quick action saves the day.

"Out Of The Depths" continues "Roads of Destiny" at Casino.

Pauline Frederick and Edmund Gwenn in "Out Of The Depths," will be shown at the Casino this Saturday. The production abounds with lots of interest and there are enough thrillers to satisfy those who like to see the best in the picture houses. These are some of the thrills you'll see. A part of the real Mexican Army as well as the real Mexican town are seen in "Casino," a typical and realistic atmosphere in this playhouse expressing a theme of differences between Americans and Mexicans.

"Rustlers Of The Night," "Ling Lips" and New Serial At Casino

Neal Hart, distinguished portrayer of Western roles, is seen in great adventure in "Bastards of the Night." The story is a tale of a secret society that has certain "secret experiments" and thrill in its very best that are mainly found in a 15-episode serial. Neal Hart is to appear at the Casino Theatre Saturday. Besides keeping pace high, tantalized from the very start, this great big epic gives you a chance to see the best in the West. How it will end up, but not before how clever you may be, never gives the contents of the little wooden box, which is the secret to bring the story to a climax.

The first episode of Art Accord, in "Winners of the West," will also be shown Saturday.

Then M. Luce's drama will be seen. "Ling Lips" will be the second feature at the Casino.

WHERE SHALL WE GO—WHICH WAY

There never was a time in the political history of the Negro in America that he has been confronted with a more serious problem than now. The Negro press which used to reflect upon its readers the feelings, thoughts and aspirations of the Negro has almost a unit in sounding the alarm, letting the people know that a crisis in our political life is at hand. Yet these editors have been slow to suggest the best way out of the unpleasant situation, with the least harm done to all concerned.

It is surely a question of more than passing notice when one thinks of the attitude of the Republican party to the Race at this time. The Chicago Defender, the most widely-circulated paper published by the Race, in its issue of Oct. 1, asks the question, "Where Shall We Go?" John Mitchell, of Richmond, Va., in a column which William W. Alderman, a candidate for the legislature of Virginia on an independent ticket, nominally by a convention participated in principally by Negroes, after they had been denied a seat in a "Lily White" convention.

Mitchell admits that the course of the Virginia Blacks is a "hard one," and is not desirable; "but," says he, "there is nothing else for us to do."

The Chicago Defender follows along a similar course, suggesting "strict independence." We herewith produce the editorial from the Defender, for the benefit of The Argus readers, which reads as follows:

Where Shall We Go?

IN VIEW OF THE ATTITUDE and indicated tendencies of the present national administration which is prepared to shun the Negro, to belittle him, to ignore him, to make him as obnoxious and indefensible, the question that naturally presents itself is, what shall we do and where shall we go? The attitude and tendencies referred to would seem to indicate that our place in the Republican party is no longer desired—that the fundamental principles and doctrines which heretofore represented the principal difference between the two major parties are to be repudiated and abandoned—that the party is no longer to be the organ and representative of those who believe in equal civil and political rights, national supremacy and impartial enforcement of the laws of the land and a fair play and square deal for all true and loyal American citizens regardless of race, color, national or religion.

IF THIS BE TRUE the Republican party of today will have no further claim upon this great mass of the American electorate. These voters remained loyal to the Republican party until the inauguration of the unwise and unfortunate policy of the Taft administration, which the present administration seems to have inherited.

THE SUGGESTION comes from certain quarters that we align ourselves with and support indiscriminately the candidates of the Democratic party, if for no other reason than from a spirit of reticence and fear. The Negro is too short and time too valuable to fight battles of retaliation and revenge. What we want is to bring about practical results for the future and not punish any one for mistakes of the past. Then again, we cannot overlook the fact that the Democratic party as an organization, is primarily responsible for the major part of the wrongs and injustices to which we are subjected. This, however, is not true of all members of the party.

THERE ARE OTHERS who suggest that we as a separate and distinct organization form a party of our own. This is not only imprudent, but misleading, as it will, in our judgment, give us no real whatever action we take should must be in accord with the advocacy of principles and doctrines we believe to be paramount and vital. The formation of a party upon race lines would place us in the attitude of supporting and encouraging what we de-

MONTE AGAIN, some advise that we join the Socialists and other minor parties. What we should do is to ally ourselves with no party but maintain a position of strict independence, with a view of voting in the future for individuals rather than parties. To do this we must vote for the longer vote for the candidate because he is a Federal Republican. Not another because he is labeled Democratic or something else, but make the attitude of the candidate upon questions we deem paramount and vital, the controlling factor in casting our votes.

THIS COURSE we are well in right in relegating to private life those who are now in control of the machinery of the Republican party and by whom the secret principles and doctrines of that party are being betrayed and sacrificed. In that event, the Republican party of the future may again become the medium through which the great mass of voters above referred can give expression to their views and sentiments.

IN THIS SHOULD NOT MATTERLESS is another one of the type of Abraham Lincoln may come to the front under whose leadership these voters will rally in the formation of another party built upon the ruins of the former Republican party. The word "former" is used advisedly because the Taft-Harding administration no longer reflect and represent what the Republican party heretofore stood for.

TO HONOR ROOSEVELT

The people of the Nation will, on October 27 pay a fitting tribute in thought and meditation to the life of America's greatest citizen, the late Theodore Roosevelt.

The thing that made Roosevelt great was his daring courage and patriotism. He had the courage to put his conviction into action. He was super-patriotic, in that he put his country above self. Such traits will make any man great in the eyesight of his fellowmen.

So, in order that we may be benefited by the celebration of his sixty-third birthday, we should examine ourselves to see if we possess those qualities that made him great. If we have not, we should begin from that day and resolve to be men, men of character.

Though having once been President of the United States as the regular nominee of the Republican party, yet he had the courage to leave the party for its wrongs by organizing the Bull Moose party. No man better can tell just what his doings in Chicago in 1912 meant to this nation. To be sure, it meant eight years of "Wilsonism"; but who knows what would have happened had Roosevelt been President when the world was plunged into the great war?

Theodore Roosevelt exemplified the highest type of American ideals. He would do the right because it was right regardless of the howls of the mob. He believed in a square deal to all regardless of race or creed. He refused to close the door of hope against any man, and this was the secret of his charming personality which will live forever.

ST. LOUIS TRIBUNE

The Argus extends its greeting to The St. Louis Tribune our new contemporary which has just entered the journalistic field in this city.

We look upon The Tribune not as a mere competitor, but regards its relation to us deeper, because the field is large and there are many battles to be fought for the Race. The more the voices that join the protest against the injustices to which we as a group are constantly subjected, greater will be the moral effect.

We note that the initial issue is a nice clean sheet, 8-pages, regular 7-column, carrying news of general interest, with an editorial staff of such able men as Arthur A. Dyer and Robert P. Watt, both of whom are teachers at Sumner High School of this city. Associated with these gentlemen are Warren Brown Sr., Warren Brown Jr., Herman Dreer, Chase Prentiss and Margaret Wilkerson. The business manager is Oscar Lancaster, while George Mitchell is the circulating manager.

With this coterie of officers, devoted and consecrated to the task we can look forward to a crown to their efforts.

We welcome The Tribune into the journalistic field and bid the sponsors of that publication God's speed. Below we reproduce the copy of their dedication, which appeared in their first issue, that the public will have a better idea of their purpose:

DEDICATION

"To no dogma or clique, or creed or party; but to a spirit, a hope, a longing. To the damnation of the masters and the salvation of the masses in the red age—struggle to live, and labor to rise. To be lynched and the outraged, to the sndra and the bound, to the wage-slave and the serf!

"To all the victims of crushed, and down-trodden, age-old victims of the crook and greed, and self-pelt of earth—those who sacrifice our effort and force and lives and souls that the cause of the living of these may be served in the name of humanity.

THE WESTERN DISPATCH

We have before us volume one and No. two of The Western Dispatch, published in Los Angeles, California.

The second issue is neatest and its editorials are striking alone in the line where strength is needed.

There are some things we must not forget. Chief among them is the "Raw Deal" given the colored people of St. Louis.

Some of the members of the Board of Aldermen are still asleep.

Rev Abbott says, "It's a parrot Negro who you hear always repeating what the boss says." Amen!

There is no use of sending anonymous letters to The Argus for publication in its columns. Your name and address must accompany matters you wish published.

We admire Babe Ruth in that he strikes hard, either for a home or strike-out.

Kill time and you will possibly kill a good career.

It is easy to find fault, but the way to correct it is to roll up your sleeves and go-to-it.

The fellow who saved a little when he was making much, is a little ahead of the game now.
